

ABSTRACT

The Draft Law on the Elimination of Sexual Violence is still crowded in the audience. This legal umbrella still continues to be turbulent in the community because it continues to invite pros and cons about this RUU PKS. It is also undeniable that in Indonesia the number of sexual violence that occurs, especially against women and children, is very high, making this PKS Bill, must be passed immediately. Mass media is a media for public discussion about something that will later involve three parties, namely news sources, audiences and of course also journalists. Framing analysis will be the main topic of this study, where the media constructs a reality raised in a news story. Framing analysis can be used as a tool to find out how reality is framed by the media. In this study, it used news from Kompas.com and also Republika regarding the packaging that these two media did for the PKS Bill. This research uses qualitative research based on qualitative research types. The data collection technique carried out is by means of an online-based literature study related to media framing in the news using Robert N analysis. Entman with reference through the news of Kompas and Republika.
