

ABSTRACT

The quality of employee performance is one of the factors needed to increase productivity in a Workforce Group. The group of workers in question are people who work in a company or other business that involves several people to work in the course of a business.

Assessment is very important to assess employee performance which is needed to evaluate work results and see the quality of work owned by employees. So, employee performance appraisal can help a company or business in order to improve the performance of its employees.