

ABSTRACT

PT Indocipta Karya Pradana is a trading company engaged in the automotive sector that focuses on selling environmentally friendly and energy efficient electric motors. In running its business, PT Indocipta Karya Pradana still uses a manual recording system. Which should have been able to apply the use of accounting information technology. Because the use of accounting information technology has proven to be very helpful in various fields of business, with the application of accounting information technology companies can easily manage and record every transaction that takes place, such as for example recording purchase transactions and sales transactions, not only that in the use of the company's accounting information system as well. can easily calculate the VAT charged on each product sold and the company can also easily control the inventory in the warehouse automatically because the application can generate inventory stock cards, the company's further advantages are also facilitated in making reports for each ongoing transaction such as reports purchase, sales report or general journal

Keywords: Purchase Transactions, Sales Transactions, VAT, Card Stock.