

ABSTRACT

If you want to get health care at a health center or clinic , usually have to queue up waiting to be served . In the queue , there are several problems in primary health care . Problems in the health center on the management of data and the queue of patients who have not organized.

This study aims to provide an overview of a model of health centers queue using NFC (Near Field Communication) , to perform an implementation of the queue health centers by combining NFC (Near Field Communication) .

Keywords : NFC (Near Field Communication) , queue health centers