ABSTRACT

Web-based application To Help Concentration Exam used to assist teachers SMA 1 Ujungbatu students majoring in the electoral process. This application helps in the implementation of the direct examination and pembutan report. This application is made by using SDLC waterfall until the implementation stage. This application form built Website that was built to programming language PHP, using a MySQL database. This application is used by teachers and high school students 1 Ujungbatu country.

The functionality contained in this application include the selection of a test department conduct online, manage student data, manage the data on, making reports and exam results election majors student test schedule settings. Teachers have access rights to manage student accounts, manage problems, manage data value of report cards and report the results of the election exam test. While students have access rights to conduct online exams.

Keywords: Application, Concentration exam, Web