

ABSTRACT

Garbage still possess some serious problem today. Garbage which is likely to continue growing is packaging waste in the form of glass bottles for many beverage products. Glass bottles is included in the list of waste that cannot be biodegradable, and if it accumulates will pose some problems, such as health problems and environmental pollution. One way that can be applied in an attempt to minimize garbage from glass bottles is to reuse the material into different products or can be called recycling. This can also reduce the accumulation of garbage from glass bottles, as well to increase the economic value by turning it into useful goods. In this study, glass bottles will be made into fashion accessories as necklace with rustic style, rustic is a style that focuses on natural impression, from material that is not finished or polished, such as wood, stone, metal, and so on. Crochet technique is also used in the manufacture of these accessories.
