

Abstract

Leady is a learning application based on android to introduce the alphabet to dyslexia children. Submission of material is given in the form of visual and audio, as well as the evaluation that is to beneficial to know if the concept used efficiently or not.

The application has several feature of learning to introduce the alphabet, such as writing, letters, guess the shapes and sound of the letters. This leady concept uses a learning system that is guided by parents to control childs development.

The application has score to see the progress of children in lerning in order to let parents know the childrens developments increased or decreased.

There is also a feature that requires user to draw the dotted lines that form letter to get used to recognize the alphabet letters.

Leady application is based on android because this platform is demanded a lot by smartphone users nowadays. The hope of the developers of this application is to help dyslexia children recognize letters of the alphabet.

Keywords: disleksia, mobile, leady, alfabet, android