

ABSTRACT

Dozen of modern companies are doing business based on computer. Business will be more practical and faster to do when using a computer rather than a manual system. One of the advance technology and easy to use is a web and android because web can be used by whoever it is so the information will be easily delivered and android is the one of the Operation System that so much loved by people now. The android application can be easily found and owned. Spare Part Motorcycle Sales And Monthly Report Sales Application Web And Android Based is an application that make person feel easily to buy Spare Part of Motorcycle without leaving home because this application can do online transaction. The function of web application that used by admin are manage items, payment verification, view transaction data, block member. And the function of Android application that used by client are search items, view items, purchase order, view order status, payment confirmation, and approve items acceptance. This application made with prototype method until evaluation phase. The web application built by Java and MySQL. The android application built by Java. After completion of the phase of program code generation, testing conducted using the black box testing.

Keywords: web, android, purchase