

Abstract

Communication is the one of important elements in the human society. Socialization process are comes from social interaction, and social interaction are made from good way communication and intense. That three things cannot be separated cause they connected each other, and must be preceed for making maximum quality of socialization . But, in fact in the society, certain people having abnormality on their healthy, which as can caused damage on they brain system that may have disease problems and distress, even it is hard to communicate, this is called autism.

Autism had variant spectrums, autism spectrum in here had been classified into low intensity and high intensity. Autism spectrum which in the low intensity category is Asperger Syndrome. But, low spectrum autis or high still have main problems is communication distrupction, autis child only do communicate with picture visualization and audio. Because autis kids have more interest in the learning something with picture interpret.

Based that problems, then it created a mobile app from android platform communication therapy with min version jellybean 4.1. This app is teaching and introducing autis kids daily activity with picture,text and supported by audio for stimulate communication improvement on autis kids with people arounds. Daily activity in this app are classifies into few activity categories.

Keywords: communication, interaction, autism, asperger, android