

ABSTRACT

This research was conducted at PT. Len Industri (Persero). The purpose of this research is to investigate if there are an impacts of organization culture against work discipline. The research method used was surveyed, with causal descriptive data analysis techniques. Collecting data using the questionnaire method with Likert Scale model and there are 204 respondents as sample of this research. Data analysis technique used is a simple regression analysis. The result shows that organizational culture has a positive and significant effect against work discipline at PT. Len Industri (Persero).