

ABSTRACT

This application can make at a time when work orders, manufacture of spare part sales transactions and Serviss servis, know the profit obtained each month. PT every day. 2198 AHASS World Motor Trade sale spare part and servis dicatatat servis into the book. When consumers have a card memeber, then consumers will get a discount of 10% per transaction purchase spare parts and servis also servis. Basic cash method will be used to assist in the recording of the sale of spare parts and Serviss servis. The functionality that is expected in this application is able to manage the master data, sales discount and servis, expenditure expense and the recording of accounting reports. This web-based application created with object-oriented techniques with the method of working of the system development life cycle methods of the waterfall. The design in the creation of applications using Data Flow Diagrams (DFD). Design for database using Entity Relationship Diagrams (ERD) code making use of the PHP programming language and uses MySQL for database management.

Keywords: web-based applications, sales of spare parts, servis, Discount member.