

ABSTRACT

In this modern era, people with mental disorders who have psychiatric problem increasing. Factors that trigger the problem are variety of things including economic, social, and more. The inability of a man to control his mental make serious damage to the brain. For patients with unstable mental condition required inspections, consulting, and rehabilitation for mental health.

The right place to carry out such treatment is Mental Hospital. But unfortunately the conditions of Psychiatric Hospital in Indonesia has not been concerned with the conditions and the atmosphere that can be built to support the cure patients. According to the research develops, interior elements such as ceiling, wall, floor, furniture can be a media effect on the mental state of patients with psychiatric disorders. One proven interior atmosphere can affect a person's psychology is the study of the Healing Environment where all the interior elements must be considered when designing a Psychiatric Hospital.

Keywords : mental hospital, healing environment, psychiatric disorders