

Abstract

Design Islamic Pop-up Picture Book about Everyday Sunnah for Children

Religious education for children are one of the most important things in order children to develop and grow as good and useful individual in the society. Bad Impact of the absent of religious education can be seen in high statistics of children-involved criminal activity. Because of that, we need a learning media which can captivate children's reading and learning interest about religious education. Pop-up books is one many media which fulfill the needs of appealing learning media for children by its interactivity and playful content. A few data collecting methods are used in this designing process, such as literature study, observation, interview and questionnaire while the questionnaire analysis and matrix analysis are used for data analyzing methods. The pop-up book filled with appealing and fun illustration about religious education for children are the results of this designing process. the book will be expected to help parents educate their kids about religious value and also it will be a starting point of daily Islamic education for children.
