

ABSTRACT

In this era there are some activities that switch functions. One of them is cycling that switches to lifestyle. Cycling is now the lifestyle of some people in the city. Activities become the lifestyle of middle and upper society. The cycling trend also influenced the bicycle users' clothing mode. But there are obstacles when cycling one of which the weather is uncertain. Those cycling need biking clothing with an attractive design that serves to protect the body from the weather easily change. Especially when the rainy season. In addition, cycling also must have storage to store gadgets and wallets users. Seeing the phenomenon the authors will design a cycling jacket that has the appropriate design as a bike user and can be used to face the weather during the rainy season.
