

DEDICATION

This thesis is dedicated to my wife, who have always give me spirit by her own way, with patience and pray and to my mother, who taught me to be always have a patience in learning something as well as doing something..

This thesis is also dedicated to whole of my family: brothers and sisters, I would have never reached the point of finishing my thesis without support and motivation from my beloved family, especially my son Jevon, with his unique ways, always give me solace and happines. Thank you so much for always being there for me, in times of when the research was going to plan and being done for your understanding and emotional support.