

ABSTRACT

The project is an activity that was done while and require compactness to achieve the desired objectives, communication becomes very important in a project because this is the basis of information to build an application. Communication is most easily done is by way of face to face, but it will not be possible if the distance and time is not possible. By looking at the height of social media users in Indonesia, this application implementing a concept of social media as a medium of communication between members of the team and also as a medium to share projects and search for team members if it does not have the human resources. In addition to the above application also provides management functions and monitoring the progress of work of every team member.

Keywords: Project, Communication, Social Media, Project Management.