

ABSTRACT

Many large companies today make corporate governance as a key aspect of their business goals. In addition, good corporate governance of the company can be used as a consideration tool for investor in making decisions. On the other hand, many problems are causing environmental issues as a result of development activities, encouraging the creation of environmentally sound industries. Along with the development of CSR, the company began to realize the importance of disclosing a report that is not only about the company's financial condition. With the current corporate Good Corporate Governance (GCG) and Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) report, it can be one of the factors affecting the company's financial performance.

This study aims to obtain empirical evidence on the influence of GCG and CSR to the financial performance of the company. The object of research are companies listed in Corporate Governance Perception Index during 2013-2015. Data collection method were conducted using data documentation technique from sustainability report and annual report published through The Indonesian Institute for Corporate Governance (IICG). Based on the sample collection using purposive sampling, the number of samples of this study are 9 companies that are listed continuously in the Corporate Governance Perception Index during 2013-2015.

Based on test results using Eviews software version 9, independent variables consisting of Good Corporate Governance and Corporate Social Responsibility simultaneously have a non significant effect on the Company's Financial Performance in terms of Return On Assets. Partial testing showed that Good Corporate Governance has a positive significant effect towards the Company's Financial Performance, while Corporate Social Responsibility does not have a partial effect towards the Company's Financial Performance.
