ABSTRACT

The condition of abandoned children in Indonesia is so poor that it needs the support of environment for optimal growth, which is a facility in the form of Social Protection House for Children in Bandung which can be a substitute for the role function of parents, one of which is aimed to guarantee and protect children and children's rights, the right to live, grow, develop and participate optimally in accordance with the dignity and dignity of humanity, and form a good character to be useful in society. The issues that can be found in the House of Child Social Protection is an interior that does not meet the standards of orphanage, because there are still many rooms that are not available in the House of Child Social Protection, such as children's playroom, health room, counseling room, study room. This design uses the concept of "Metamorphosis of Butterflies" in the hope that children can learn and practice madiri in everyday life but still fun and comfortable for children. Pay attention to the layout of space, ergonomics and the needs of facilities provided in accordance with the child's activities and application in the room.
