

FOREWORD

All praise and grateful be to Allah SWT for all of His blessings that the author can finish this thesis titled “The Influence of McClelland’s Theory of Needs towards Employee Performance (Case Study PT. Wilmar International Ltd, Jakarta Branch).” The objective of doing this research is to fulfill one of the requirements of graduation S-1 International ICT Business, Faculty of Economic and Business, Telkom University.

During doing this research, author got a lot of guidance and support and therefore the author feels the need to thank every one of them who have contribute and guide the author along the way of working on this thesis:

1. Dr. Ratri Wahyuningtyas, S,T., M.M. as my supervisor for my thesis and also as my academic supervisor who guides me and support me all the way through.
2. My beloved parents, Ayah and Bunda, the anchor in my life for keeping me grounded, yet always know when to keep me afloat.
3. All the lecturers in Telkom University for all the knowledge passed along, an interest in knowledge pays the best interest.
4. Mr. Anggara and Mr. Haryono from PT.Wilmar International Ltd. Thank you for the helps and inputs.
5. Maharani, Mahavira, and Mahathir. My savior, companion, best friend forever, and my enemies I can’t live without.
6. Families and friends in Bogor, Jakarta, and other cities. We’re too far away, but your support never fades.
7. International ICT Business of Telkom University Batch 6. Thank you.

The author is aware this paper is still far from perfection and might have some flaw, therefore criticism and suggestion are expected as a motivation to do better and to learn in the future. Author hopes this thesis is useful for a lot of people or parties.

Bandung, 2nd of April 2018

A handwritten signature in blue ink, consisting of stylized, overlapping letters that appear to be 'MA' followed by a vertical stroke and a horizontal line.

Mahareva Aulia Putri