

ABSTRACT

Pharmacy is one of business that run in a medical field. Pharmacy is a place to buy and sell drugs that customers will bought based on their needs or medical prescription. Pharmacy don't only serves customers who bought drugs that doesn't based on prescription, but they also serve customers who do examination in clinic and other health facilities to get a prescribed-drug in a pharmacy. This application is a web-based application. This application is made to prevent a long queue that will ease the customers to make a transaction faster and precise. The inflicted problem in this pharmacy is because of the long queue

Applications Sales accompanied the consultation is implemented to assist Pharmacies in doing a more effective job so that it will make it easier for his work with employees and avoid the risk of mistakes made and employees steer clear of did the loss against the pharmacy. As well as assist the customer to do online booking or reservations required recommendations from a doctor or a prescription drug. The application created in the base Website. This application was created to prevent long queues that will make it easier for customers to Transact quickly and precisely. The problem posed in this Pharmacy because there is a long queue and there is no drug replacement if the medications ordered are not available and the process of logging the drugs still using books and copied to excel perminggunya. Logging a drug made to resolve the problem in terms of drug stock logging incoming as well as outgoing, makes it easy for employees logging in log incoming or outgoing drug because the data will go faster to database programs. This application can make it easier for Customer to buy drugs online without having to do a long queue.

Keywords: Pharmacy, Consultancy, Website.