

ABSTRACT

Motif Processing Inspired From Natural Lines Pattern Applied To Ready-To-Wear Fashion

By

SARAH PUTRI VINDYONA

1605140088

Program Studi Kriya Tekstil dan Mode

Nature is something pure and made by itself. Then, there is uniqueness in every line pattern. For example, we can see line patterns from natural things around us. Further, natural line patterns have potential to be developed into a work. To make a work, we can be inspired from what we've seen around us, for example motif works. The most common motif work that we see is made from plants and animals, therefore natural line patterns can be a potential of motif work innovation, especially in the fashion sector. Therefore, the researcher made several explorations about processing of motif works that are inspired from natural line patterns. For example wood motif, it has a strong characteristic rather than other explorations. The wood motif then applied to ready-to-wear fashion, then, hopefully, the development would be fast in the fashion industry because of the consumers' needs that can use the fashion item on any occasion.

Keywords: Nature, natural lines, motif, fashion, ready-to-wear