Framing Analysis on Setya Novanto's Car Crash News In Case of E-KTP Procurement Projection

The case of corruption is something that often adorn the mass media coverage in Indonesia. Number of names of officials of this country did not escape the case. One of them is the Chairman of the House of Representatives, Setya Novanto who became a suspect in the case of corruption procurement project E-KTP card. Setya Novanto had an accident when he was about to be examined by KPK. This incident further adds to the twists and turns in the settlement of corruption cases. The purpose of this research is to see the framing of corruption issues done by Mojok.co and Tempo.co through the news of the accident that happened with Setya Novanto. This study uses framing analysis techniques by William A. Gamson and Andre Modigliani with qualitative methods and constructivist paradigm. The results show Mojok.co describes the issue of corruption as being insensitive in Indonesia and can be mocked through power. Meanwhile, according to Tempo.co, corruption issue stands as a matter of law alone.
