

Abstract

Internet and social media has become one of the most important means of communication for the Indonesian community. But social media has also become one of the media to spread hatred and provocation using fake news. There are still many people who are less alert and meticulous in responding to false news. There needs to be a way to remind people to always be wary of fake news, one of them through comic media that is currently rampant in social media. By collecting data and case examples from several events that are being viral in social media, comics are able to convey a way of responding to news with a different perspective. It is expected that readers can get a safer approach in responding to false news circulating in social media. If people are able to respond to false news more wisely, then disputes and hatred can be avoided or minimized.
