

ABSTRAK

Office is a place that is used for work and is equipped with several supporting facilities there. The BPKN-RI Office is the Consumer Protection Agency of the Republic of Indonesia, which is the institution that drafts law number 8 of 1999 concerning consumer protection. BPKN-RI formed in response to the needs of the community for the interests of their rights as consumers. The focus of this design is designing the interior of the office of the Indonesian National Consumer Protection Agency that can facilitate activities in the BPKN-RI office. This office has become an important facility for consumers in Indonesia, but because of the building area that is not suitable with the existing space facilities, the standardization of space that is not yet appropriate, spatial planning that is not yet appropriate and the processing of interior elements is not yet optimal. So with that need to be redesigned at the office by moving the revival that can provide public and administrative service facilities at the BPKN-RI office.
