

ABSTRACT

---

Sustainable tourism is very important for developing countries for example Indonesia, sustainable tourism in addition to making an area more attractive to visit also improves the economy for residents or residents around tourist destinations. In this study, researchers tried to answer how sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang District of Bandung as an ecological tourism attraction. In this study, the authors have chosen several identification problems including: How is sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang, South Bandung by utilizing environmental resources and how the implementation of sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang tourism destinations. The purpose of this study is to determine and analyze sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang, South Bandung by utilizing environmental resources, and to determine the implementation of sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang tourism destinations. The method used in this study is a qualitative research method with data collection techniques using observation, interviews, and documentation studies. The results of this study that aspects of natural resources and socio-economics can shape sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang, Bandung Regency as an ecological tourism attraction. In addition, there is already the implementation of sustainable tourism in Situ Patenggang tourism destination.

Keywords: Tourism, Ecological Tourism, Sustainable Tourism, Natural Resources, Socio-economy