

ABSTRACT

Orphanages or social welfare institutions of children are defined as homes, places or dwellings used to support (care for) orphans, orphans, orphans, and also include abandoned children. Of the 50 orphanages in the city of Bandung there are not many orphanages suitable for children to live in, one of which is Daarul Adzkar Orphanage. From the existing debate, the aim of the new design at the Daarul Adzkar Orphanage Foundation is to renew the orphanage in accordance with government eligibility standards to enable it to help more children. This interior design has the theme "productive space" with the concept of design that is "child friendly". Themes and concepts that are intended with the hope that every room in the orphanage is useful for children's activities, so that children are comfortable in their activities.
