

ABSTRACT

The number of population every day is increasing so that there is less land available to build houses. therefore the construction of houses in urban areas is designed in a minimalist way. minimalist house is a house that utilizes small land as best and as functional as possible. To support the minimalist home concept, we also need minimalist furniture. one of the furniture that is widely used in homes in Asia, especially Indonesia, namely the rice cooker. many use of rice cookers because rice is a staple food in Indonesia, so rice cookers are often found in Indonesian houses. For a place to store rice is usually placed separately with a rice cooker, so it takes up quite a lot of space. To save space to be more functional, designers are inspired to design a product that combines rice cookers with rice dispensers to create a product that is concise and functional so that it can support minimalist concept.
