

ABSTRACT

---

The kitchen is a place where people can make food and the kitchen is also spread everywhere, for example like in a restaurant. Resto Point of Sales application is an application that can order, book, and manage food stock. The purpose of making this application is to facilitate the stock manager and kitchen manager in processing and recording food. This application was built using the PHP programming language, with the Codeigniter framework and using a MySQL database. The application development method uses the Waterfall methodology.

Keywords: Stock, Kitchen