

ABSTRACT

Shelter design aims to provide an innovation for designers in creating products according to the needs or problems that exist. With examples of existing problems such as lack of preparing equipment when doing outdoor activities and having to deal with bad weather if it occurs. Therefore the designer makes a product to be a temporary residence that can be made easily and quickly in order to protect the user from bad weather, this product is designed using a system to be easily dismantled, with geometric shapes and monotonous colors, this design using polyester and aluminum as the main material. This product has a target user that is nature activists or ordinary people when they want to use it outdoors can be used by men and women, with age restrictions ranging from 17 years to 50 years and over.

Keywords: outdoor, shelter, nature activist