Clothing is used to cover parts of the body and show a person's identity. Meanwhile, semi-formal suit clothing is one of type of fashion that aims to support the appearance of someone with more functional value that can be worn at formal and informal events. Semi-formal suit clothing now days has more varied designs, motifs and colors. Based on the exploration results in the manufacture of fashion patterned suits, it has produced more fabric waste than other type of clothes. Based on environmental conditions, the percentage of fabric waste in the fashion industry is currently the highest value compared to other industries. Thus it is necessary to create a semi-formal suit with laminated woven materials that can minimize the accumulation of waste production by combining basic pattern with zero waste fashion methods.
