Children are one of the four processes of human development. This process cannot be avoided, in this process children need companions and guidance in shaping the character and personality of a child. Parents are important factors to help children find their identity and character. one of the places that can help the formation of character and personality is the Asyifa Tangerang orphanage, the purpose of designing the interior design of the orphanage is so that the orphanage can increase religious effectiveness, create a good circulation flow according to user activities, and fulfill facilities that are not yet available at the orphanage. in order to increase effectiveness. The theme that is applied in order to achieve the goal is the theme “Fun Pleasure” which means building a sense of happiness by applying interior design as a way to increase the comfort of children in the orphanage. The theme is used to make the orphanage foundation a home that provides a sense of comfort and security with a pleasant atmosphere so that children can get more of a decent life.
