

ABSTRACT

In this study, using residual raw materials with the aim of knowing and analyzing the presentation in the processing of how to use the correct residual raw materials, therefore the use of the remaining raw materials in the butcher and commissary department. This research method used is observation, interviews and study pustka. The purpose of this paper is to find out and provide information about how the utilization of leftover raw materials in the butcher and commissary department of the Fourpoints by Sheraton Bandung hotel, and in the making of this final project the authors use data collection methods, interview field supervisors, study literature that supports the theory of the utilization of waste raw materials. in the butcher and commissary department not to waste the remaining raw materials at the Fourpoints by Sheraton Bandung hotel which can be reused during work operations and to find solutions to problems that arise.

Keywords: Food and Product, Utilization of leftover raw materials