Along with the development of the times, data and information can be easily accessed digitally via the internet without having to come or visit the library in person. In addition, the lifestyle and needs of the community will continue to evolve with the times, so that this will affect the interest in visiting and reading in the library. In order to increase people's interest in reading, libraries need to study and understand the lifestyle and needs of people in the modern era. According to the Central Statistics Agency (2020), the millennial generation is the generation with the largest population. The millennial generation grows together with technological developments that make this generation have quite significant differences in lifestyle and needs than the previous generation. The difference in lifestyle and character of the millennial generation needs to be studied to determine the hopes and needs of the public for libraries in the modern era (Lauren Pressley, 2006). Seeing the condition and lifestyle of the people of the city of Bandung today, the library must also develop and keep up with the times to meet the needs of the current community. In addition, the provision of technology-based facilities in the library needs to be considered to meet the needs of visitors in accordance with the current lifestyle of society. The concept of this re-design is taken from the character and lifestyle of today's society with the use of dynamic lines and shapes in furniture and circulation.
