

ABSTRACT

Professions in various fields are mutually involved in a shared work environment, this is why co-working spaces are chosen to meet the needs of workers, especially companies that are just starting out such as startups. The development of the startup itself in the city of Bandung is getting faster with the presence of startups from various fields and entering as one of the creative industries that have a role in encouraging the economy, especially in the city of Bandung. Furthermore, the growth of Coworking Space in Bandung is also growing rapidly accompanied by the growth of more startups. Startups need a place or land that can be rented such as a private office, so this is one of the factors why from the various coworking spaces that the authors have surveyed, the most preferred facilities are private offices and other facilities such as shared areas/coworking areas and meeting rooms. Then regarding the facilities provided, they must pay attention to the way users work in the current era where they work flexibly and move places so that they require a varied work area and according to the way they work. The most important activity in a coworking space is not only as a rental space equipped with work facilities but also as a social function for coworking users to interact, exchange information, and collaborate so that by paying attention to the behavior of the way they work and the activities that occur can be applied to the design. interiors.
