ABSTRACT

Various aspects of the development of information technology help people in their daily activities, including looking for job vacancies. Many employees have been laid off or laid off causing increased unemployment. Therefore, employees who have been terminated will definitely need information on job vacancies, for example freelance. Then another thing, job seekers feel inconvenient in applying for several jobs in the online vacancies media according to their field or expertise, especially when applying for a job they must fill out an application for every vacancy to be applied and other forms of administration.

(Keywords: Freelance, job vacancies)