

ABSTRACT

---

Website-based housing marketing application that can find out information about Green Terra housing that carries the ordering feature by selecting the type of house as well as services for the payment process in housing purchase with mortgage and full installments and also can see the location of housing located. The methodology used in making this application is to use the Waterfall method. The programming languages used are PHP and HTML. Tools and editors used by XAMPP and Visual Studio Code. Users of this application are marketing admins who can manage, process payments, manage housing availability and manage housing information. And consumers can make housing orders, process payments, get information, and find out the position of housing.

Keywords: Application, Marketing, Housing