

ABSTRACT

Ireine Farike

1604170050

Toxic Masculinity Visualization of "The End of Eddy" Book by Édouard Louis in Mixed Media Painting

TA: Program Studi Seni Rupa Fakultas Industri Kreatif Universitas Telkom

"Someone who does not feel himself to be a man will all the more wish to appear one, and someone who knows his own inner weakness is all the more ready to exhibit displays of strength." This fragment of words quoted from the book "The End of Eddy" by Edouard Louis has become an inspiration for the author. This book tells the story of Eddy Belleguele, a child who was born a boy but has a female soul inside. This is a reference for the author because gender inequality is also felt by the author. This discussion about gender inequality aims to help the surrounding community understand more about masculinity. In this paper, the author uses the literature study method and in it there are observations about Eddy Belleguele who is trying to find his true identity. From the results of the work, there are several things that need attention including the use of striking colors, this is related to the choice of flow in works that use the flow of fauvism. The drawback of this work is the lack of visual references because it is difficult to find references about toxic masculinity.

Key Words: Masculinity, Violence, Bullying.