

ABSTRACT

DESIGN OF RAHAYU COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER BANDUNG REGENCY

Faidatul vina

Design Interior, Faculty of Creative Industries, Telkom University

Jl. Telecommunications No.1, Canal Buah Batu, Sukapura, Bandung, West Java 40257

Puskesmas services are a benchmark in serving the community, the availability of health facilities and space is an important role that must be considered which aims to provide comfort for the community so that the implementation of the program that will be carried out can be maximized in its health service activities. well. In this puskesmas service, there are still many puskesmas services that do not meet the operational standards of the Ministry of Health, one of which is the puskesmas in the Rahayu Margaasih area, Bandung regency, this Puskesmas service has become one of the main roles in the eyes of the Rahayu community, but the role of the Rahayu health center is slowly not playing an important role because the availability of space is not good enough from its comfort and space capacity, therefore the surrounding community complains about the existing facilities due to services that do not meet standards and do not provide open readiness in every puskesmas building, people in Rahayu also expect delivery services in Puskesmas with complete facilities, there are also no supporting facilities in providing services for elderly children and for people with special needs. The conclusions obtained need to do a new design at the Rahayu Health Center because it is the main reference for health services for the community, besides that it is also a facility that is ready to serve visitors by providing comfort and safety services for its users and reaching quality health services and attracting the attention of the surrounding community. responsible for health development in their working area.

Keywords: Puskesmas, facilities, Health.