

ABSTRACT

The high development of logistics services in big cities such as Jakarta has made motorized courier services a priority for efficiency. Since motorbikes have a small load, the presence of a Obrok bag helps make it easier for couriers to carry and deliver packages. A Obrok bag is a bag that has a large rectangular shape and also has two largepockets on the left and right. These bags are generally used for shipping services. In accordance with its shape and size, the main function of this obrok courier bag is to transport large quantities of goods. A Obrok bag can store a lot of luggage, but a obrok bag that doesn't have a separator for large and small packages, so the security of the package is less secure and prone to package loss. In this design, researchers focus on compartments that can help organize packages carried by couriers.
