

ABSTRACT

Interior New Design Archeology Museum, Kota Baru Parahyangan with Interior Sequence Approach

The need for educational facilities as well as recreation is currently one of the needs for the general public today. This educational and recreational facility can be obtained by visiting the museum, which provides various information and knowledge, along with recreational aspects. Museums are now a great interest to the general public. Various museums come with uniqueness, which is very interesting to visit for recreational and educational reasons. A museum is a permanent official institution for collecting, caring for, researching, and exhibiting various collections of objects that can be used as a cultural heritage that can be of public concern with the aim of education, research, recreation, as well as evidence of human history, and the environment that has occurred so far.
