

ABSTRACT

Palembang people's interest in music has grown rapidly, seen from the public's appreciation of music by holding musical performances and others. However, there is no place for formal education to accommodate the interests and talents of musicians in Palembang. Therefore, a plan and design for a Music College was made that could develop the interests and talents of musicians in Palembang. However, the interior of the College of Music is still not designed and has not used a specific approach. This interior design uses a musical analogy approach, by applying themes and concepts that are in accordance with the character of the Music College. Through this approach, it is hoped that it can create a Music College that is in accordance with the character of this school, which is about music, and create a school that is comfortable and in accordance with the activities of its users.

Keywords: School of Music, analogy, music