

ABSTRACT

Entrepreneurs making a basic food shop are the most sought after form of business by consumers, especially housewives because in these stores they provide goods for daily needs in the form of staple foods and supplies needed every day, for example rice, cooking oil, eggs, toothbrush, toothpaste, soap, etc.

The development of science and technology today has pushed humans to a better life. Moreover, with the existence of a computer where it further increases the efficiency and quality of work. Information technology has become a popular term today. However, business owners who are still unfamiliar with information technology still do not know how to use information technology in their business. With technology, humans are given convenience in completing work in various fields, such as sales. Since the entry of technology in the field of sales, supporting applications are growing in the end, making it easier for business owners such as in the process of recording goods, income, customers, purchases, sales, accounts payable and receivable reports.

Based on the problems mentioned in the previous paragraph, this research will develop a website that will connect trading companies and suppliers of basic necessities.

Keywords: company, supplier, website