Hospitals are one of the important services for the community, however, currently health services in Indonesia are not evenly distributed, one of which is Bogor Regency. According to the Central Statistics Agency, currently the availability of beds in Bogor Regency is currently still below the WHO standard, so a hospital is needed to fulfill this capacity. In addition, the existing hospitals also do not fully meet the existing hospital standards. Hermina is a hospital brand that was originally a mother and child hospital but has now transformed into a general hospital and has its own standards. Therapeutic environment is an approach which is expected to provide an experience of calm, a feeling of warmth and security and can help provide more efficient services.
