Music is a form of expressing a feeling or conveying implicit or explicit information in it so that music is a means of entertainment and the needs of society, especially young people. At present, music is experiencing very rapid development, one of which is indie music in Bandung. This is because indie musicians have a culture in the form of interaction between musicians and fans which merges into a community and is mutually beneficial, it's just that indie musicians do not have a shared space that fits the needs of their activities.

Based on the analysis that has been done, it can be concluded that at present there is no space devoted to the needs of indie musicians in carrying out activities that are grouped in one building to create user efficiency. Therefore, the design of the Bandung Indie Music Center is intended as a forum to support activities to create creativity and productivity in creating, developing, and empowering potential based on a sense of community and sense of place supported by attractiveness.
