

ABSTRACT

in the study, the author discusses the production process of video. Video documentation is something describing an event that can be documented or stored and aims to record everyday events or events. The purpose of this study is to find out how the production process of video documentation cover. The adaptation of the problem formula in this study is how the process of making video documentation. The process performed in video production in the production of video documentation starts from the pre production process, production, and post production.

Keyword : Production Process, Video