

ABSTRACT

Financial statements are records of a company's financial information in an accounting period that can be used to describe the company's performance. Financial reports are part of the financial reporting process which is usually audited by government agencies, accountants, firms or other institutions with the aim of ensuring accuracy and for tax, financing or investment purposes.