

ABSTRACT

The conflict between Israel and Palestine touches on political issues, which relate to the sovereignty of the Palestinian people over aggression carried out by Israel. Apart from that, the conflict also touched on religious issues, which identified disputes between Jewish and Islamic communities. In fact, this conflict also touches on humanitarian issues where there are so many victims, ranging from the elderly, adults, teenagers and children. The conflict between Israel and Palestine has become an international spotlight that has attracted the attention of the Indonesian people. Various information regarding this dispute dominates various media, both national and international in Indonesia. The aim of this research is to compare media framing between the online media Kompas.com and CNN Indonesia in reporting on the Israeli and Palestinian conflict throughout October 2023. This research uses a constructivist paradigm and qualitative research methods with frame analysis methods according to Zhongdang Pan and Gerald M. Kosicki. The results of this research show that Kompas.com media, through its reporting, frames the news by highlighting aspects of casualties and human rights violations due to attacks carried out by Israel. Meanwhile, CNNIndonesia.com media framed its reporting regarding attacks carried out by both parties.
