

ABSTRACT

Communication is a important aspect in a organization. With a good communication, an organization could be hava rounded information. With up to date information the company could be faster to take some decicion.

One of information of technologi who have used by many company is Local Area Network (LAN). That's could be faster to change communication data.

Performance aspec from a good network computer and have a good technology who always protected is very important. To make this real we must have a good planning like as need.

For this paper will be conducted by analysis to network PT. PLN Jawa Barat dan Banten have is not be adequate again to be used at present moment. And then will be conducted by reconfiguration or configuration repeat to network eksisting, so that the network condition as according to company requirement.

Key Words : Local Area Network (LAN), performance, and reconfiguration