

ABSTRACTION

The development of world telecommunicaion has develop in an amazing improvement from the conventional telecommunicaion to the third generation whic has combined the voice and data communication . This third generation is known as the third generation of communication or 3-G Communication.

As the new technology, CDMA2000 were improved and being standarized by the 3GPP2 (3rd Generation Partnership Project 2), and as other new technology being introduced to our country, CDMA 200 need a further acknowledgment from its works.

This Final project is being purposed as a deeper study about signalling aspect on CDMA 2000. The chosen media on this final project is a visualization program, describing signalling process on CDMA 2000, including call processing, mobility management and call feature.