ABSTRACT

Administration application that does not exist in the Faculty of Electrical and Communications IT Telkom causing access, storage, and processing of the data became constrained, whereas administration is a very important component in an institution. Therefore, build an information system is considered very necessary.

In this final project has been made application / sub system for Management Information Systems Faculty of Electrical and Communications web-based using PHP as the programming language and MySQL as database. Applications are made are submission of cover letters, value of UTS/UAS, trial registration TA/PA, the academic trial registration, and the certificates form. Where every student of Electrical and Communications Faculty can use the application anytime and anywhere.

This application can assist faculty in building Management Information Systems Faculty of Electrical and Communications. Applications provide convenience to students in accessing and storing data. In addition, the admin can process data into information that can be accepted and used in a rapid, precise and accurate. Qualitative satisfaction of users as a whole expressed a complete application by 50%, the application provides the ease of administration by 73%, application has good display by 67%, said that the application is easy to use by 80% and useful application by 57%.

Keywords: Application, PHP, MySQL